This building does appear in Herman Brosius's 1874 drawing map of Brockville. It does not appear in H.F. Walling's 1861-62 map. It likely was built c1870, possibly late 1860s.

This location had a boot or clothing store from many decades, at least the early 1880s to the late 1950s. First was D.W. Downey had a boot & shoe store here from at least 1883 or earlier. He moved from this address c1888 to the newly built "Downey" block on the south side, where he would stay for several decades until the end. D.W. Downey lived at 118 James St (1880s address system). Moses Silver replaced him with a clothing shop. He would move out of here around 1898, to the other side of Buell St., corner of King.

Globe was run by S.L. Vineberg, who resided at 74 Garden St. He was possibly a son of C.P. Vineberg, who ran a similar store in the 1800s just on the other side of Buell St, called London Cash Clothing. After a quarter of a century, Globe's was replaced by the Wiseman Brothers, clothing, who were there until the late 1950s. Wiseman's was started and owned throughout by brothers Joseph A. and Louis M. They both resided at 22 Broad St.

'Our Room At The Top', was captured in photo by Doug Grant. The top floor, for many years, was an extension of the store below according to customer memories. Brockville Floor & Wall, managed by Ralph Evreinov, used it as a toy and hobby shop when they were there. The Pant Loft in the 1980s used it as a stock room and discount items on sale. It was managed by Judy Newell.

Thea Real Estate Co. Ltd listed Thomas Hough as it's President. They had a brief stay here from c1977 to c1979.

Imperial Tailor Shop opened in this location early 2023. "Imperial Tailor is a professional alteration start-up business located in the heart of Brockville, Ontario. With over 21 years of successful experience, our team of experienced and skilled tailors provides high-quality clothing alteration services to customers throughout the community. ... At Imperial Tailor, we offer a wide range of alteration services, including hemming, resizing, adjustments, and repairs for various types of garments, including pants, shirts, dresses, and jackets."
