In 1882, William Howe's business had been on Buell St., W.H. Harrison's business was on King St., unsure if here or somewhere else. This block appears in Brosius's 1874 map drawing, but does not appear in Walling's 1861 map.

Interesting that Harrison's and Sheridan's seemed to be in direct competition and side by side for many years. Harrison was first, but Sheridan outlasted him by many decades.

Moira Furniture had a brief existence in the late 1960s. It was managed by Edward Crandell.

Recent years had the New Wave Restaurant here for several decades. It opened in 1964 by Ming Chuck Mah, in the early days with brother Chuck-Yuen Mah. Ming Chuck ran the business until he passed away at age 77 (b.1937) on November 22, 2014. The New Wave closed c2020
